“ I write on behalf of the ARTZ Philadelphia community to share our love and condolences with Beth Ann and with Dick's and Beth Ann's wonderful family. Beth Ann and Dick used to travel all the way down from Bethlehem to participate in our ARTZ @ The Museum conversations about art at Woodmere Art Museum -- at least a 1 1/2-hour drive each way. This was a testament to Beth Ann's love for and devotion to Dick and to anything that might enhance his well-being. Dick was an incredible presence in our programs, sharing remarkable insights with all of us as we looked at works of art together. Sometimes those insights came in the form of eloquent gestures with his hands when words were no longer accessible to him. We all agreed that Dick's expressive hands and face were more articulate than most people's spoken observations. As was the irreverent twinkle in his eye whenever he was inclined to share laughter with the group -- which was often.

Dick and Beth Ann contributed beautiful watercolors to our first public exhibition of works by people living with dementia and their care partners. In every way, they were at the core of our community -- regardless of how far away they lived -- and they will remain so in our hearts.
