

Blair C. Stonier

June 24, 1933 - November 13, 2019

Blair C. Stonier of Ardmore, PA died peacefully on Wednesday November 13th, 2019 at the age of 86. Husband of the late Penny and father of Elizabeth "Beth" Kornitas and Dianne Stonier. He is also survived by 5 grandchildren and 14 great grandchildren. The Family will receive guests on Sunday November 24th from 2PM to 3:15PM, with a Celebration of Blair's life beginning at 3:30PM in the Chadwick & McKinney Funeral Home, 30 E. Athens Ave., Ardmore, PA. Burial will be private in Leach Cemetery, Clarks Summit. In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to either Franciscvale Home For Smaller Animals or Bucks County Scottish-American Society. (envelopes will be provided at the funeral home)

Cemetery Details

Interment Private

Tribute Wall

GB

“ Sorry to learn of Blair's death, especially after six months have passed before I was aware of his death. I always enjoyed talking with Blair and admired his love of all things Scottish. Blair was a special person to know and "full of Scottish information". To his family I want to say I am sorry about his death. He was two years younger than I am, so we were about the same, both living through the depression years of the 1930's. George Boyden May 3, 2020.

George R Boyden - May 03, 2020 at 02:55 PM

DR

“ Please offer my condolences and respect to the family of Blair Stonier. I first met Mr. Stonier on the field of the Delco Scottish Games in 1966. He was the first Highland Drum Major I met and was an early influence on the start of my 53+ year career as a Pipe Band Drum Major. I truly appreciated the advice and guidance he gave this teenager in those early encounters and am proud that we shared membership in the Scottish-American Military Society.

David Ricklis

David Ricklis - December 03, 2019 at 10:34 AM

“ Arrive in Style was purchased for the family of Blair C. Stonier.

November 24, 2019 at 01:03 PM

SD

“ Blair and my father we’re good friends. They were both very interested in all thing Scottish, particularly family history heritage. Blair was a wonderful, gracious, extremely kind, highly intelligent person who was clearly greatly respected by his family and friends (so many who have already also passed on). I believe his spirit is now soaring free with them in Heaven and he is playing bagpipes proudly and loud, in Gods eternal angelic band... God bless you now and always and may your close friends and family always carry a part of your radiant energy and often continue to maintain many fond rememberances of your very full and well lived life. May you now rest in Grace and Peace in God’s loving embrace. You are well loved now and always...

Seth Duncan - November 24, 2019 at 12:47 PM

“ My deepest sympathy to all of Blair's family. My early memories are of Thanksgivings at Grandma and Grandpa Leach's. Always coming to my mind is Blair's great interest in the Scottish Pipers and the Leach family history. And then, four or five years ago, we reconnected, by phone and email, unfortunately not in person. This came about because we had inherited, down through our parents, a three acre parcel that had been part of Grandpa and Grandma's farm. None of us new this had happened. It's a rather bizarre story, and if anyone would like to know more: rogerbeck50@gmail.com. I'm happy that this took place but I so deeply regret that our plans to reunite in person didn't come about.

Roger Beck - November 23, 2019 at 04:17 PM

TW

“ I joined the Pipes and Drums of Delaware Valley in 2000. Blair was warm, welcoming and supportive. He always made my wife and me feel extremely comfortable and happy to be part of the band. He also taught me how to be a drum major and wear the drum major uniform correctly. His knowledge of Scottish military history was fascinating and endless. I will be forever appreciative. I loved the man.

Tim Welch - November 18, 2019 at 08:08 PM