“ Many times a day I see things that remind me of Jackie or something I would want to share with her - a cute animal video, a funny joke, a reference to a place we visited together, a good book or television program. We've shared so many laughs over the years that it was always so easy to find greeting cards for her. I still have some that were just waiting for her birthday week.

I cannot believe that I cannot reach out to her anymore. I won't have another friend like her.
