

Jean Potter Bloom

April 19, 1912 - April 16, 2013

Jean P. Bloom died of natural causes at Spring Mill Manor just days before her 101st birthday. Jean was born in Belle Vernon, Pennsylvania to Robert and Helene Potter. Jean was raised in Sunbury, Pennsylvania and graduated from the Katherine Gibbs School of NY. While working in New York City, Jean met and married the late D. Stanley Bloom, an engineer with Turner Construction, and in the late fifties they settled in Wayne. Jean was an avid bridge player, traveled the world, loved the Philadelphia Orchestra and was an active member of the Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church choir. She was fond of nature, the birds and always kept a dog and cat. Jean is survived by her dear friends Rachel & Rich McFarland and goddaughter Sue McFarland Metzger (Lou) as well as Stanley Bloom's grandsons – Michael Cozza (Pam), Carl Cozza (Lindy) and Steven Bloom (Cheryl). Her graveside service will be Friday, April 26th at 11am at Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church Memorial Garden. Memorial contributions may be sent to The Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church, 625 Montgomery Avenue, Bryn Mawr, PA 19010.
