“ Su-Jen was my school mate from the -Taipei First Girl's High school, in Taipei, Taiwan. We were in the same class but the similarities stop there. She's a good student, I was not. She's a great athlete, I was not. Our friendship lasted throughout the years however, even in the US. While she lived in Massachusetts, and we call New Hampshire our home, we managed to see each other off and on. Especially, if and when anyone came to the NE to visit from our high school. She also likes to talk on the phone and that helps.

It broke Su-Jen's heart when her husband died in a drowning accident. I don't believe that she ever fully recovered from that tragedy. However, she persevered. She's a very astute investor and she did very well for her self as well as her clients. She's always talking about her children and family. They gave her reasons to be proud and strong.

I will miss Su-Jen in more ways then one. However, if there is another world, I'd like to think that she'd be reunited with her husband. Then she will be smiling!

Rest in peace, my dear friend, Su-Jen. I will miss you very much!
