“ I met Delo at Suburban Hardware where I worked. He would come in and purchase supplies for Weldon Nursery. There wasn't a day when he would come in that I was not happier because of his visit. He was never in a bad mood and was always interested in making someone else day better. The only downside of his personality was he never took good care of his Weber Grill. It was on life support several times when I was called on to resurrect it. You made the world a better and happy place while you were here. We all will miss you.
